nobel prize winner josé saramago tells a quiet and poetic story an excerpt from his book small memories of a lasting childhood experience of simple soulful joy the narrator's memories of a lost childhood paradise focus on two glorious days when he helped his uncle take some piglets to the market in santarém they traverse dusty roads sleep in a barn and awake to a miraculous moonglow and hear the animals in their infinite conversations the journey the night the wind the light this poetic story is an unforgettable adventure narrated by josé saramago and presented alongside armando fonseca's fanciful and evocative illustrations a very special gift for readers of all ages a strange protest triggers a descent into paranoia and chaos in this illuminating parable a sequel to the nobel prize winning author's blindness ursula k le guin the guardian uk on election day in the capital it is raining so hard that no one has bothered to come out to vote the politicians are growing jittery should they reschedule the elections for another day around three o'clock the rain finally stops voters promptly rush to the polling stations as if they had been ordered to appear but when the ballots are counted more than 70 percent are blank in response to this mass act of rebellion a state of emergency is declared but are the authorities acting blindly the word evokes terrible memories of the plague of blindness that hit the city four years before and of the one woman who kept her sight perhaps she is the one behind the blank ballots a police superintendent is put on the case what begins as a satire on governments and the dubious efficacy of the democratic system turns into something far more sinister as the story unfolds the humor is still tender but the tone darkens tension rises ursula k le guin the guardian uk a delightful insight into the formation of an artist who would become one of the world's most respected writers born in 1922 in the tiny portuguese village of azinhaga josé saramago was only a baby when his family moved to a series of cramped lodgings in a working class neighbourhood of lisbon nevertheless he would return to the village throughout his early life its river and olive groves seeping deep into his memory shifting between azinhaga and lisbon this touching book is a mosaic of memories written with characteristic wit and honesty small memories traces the formation of an artist always fascinated by language and who emerged against all odds as one of the world's most respected writers combining bitter satire outrageous parody and uncanny hallucinations this collection of jos saramago's earliest stories from the beginning of his writing career attests to the novelist's imaginative power and incomparable skill in elaborating the most extravagant fantasies each tale is a wicked surreal take on life under dictatorship in embargo a man drives around a city that is slowly running out of petrol the chair recounts what happens when dictator salazar falls off his chair and dies in the kafkaesque things the life of a civil servant is threatened as objects start to go missing a comprehensive introduction for the english speaking reader to the novels of portugal's best known literary figure josé saramago the book covers both his acclaimed historically based fictions and his more recent allegorical works attention is paid to questions of ideological content and the exploitation of specifically portuguese literary and cultural traditions international award winner a beautifully illustrated story book for kids 4 8 about the importance of nature and community from nobel prize winner josé saramago the sea is the universe close to us here is the story of a man who lives at the water s edge watching the rise and fall of the shoreline it is the sea itself that gives him everything he needs to survive and yet it will take courage to enter the sometimes roaring waters the man knows that this sea that gives him everything can also take it away but with the help of friends and with patience he knows the sea can be a balm and a source of life a poetic story that will resonate with anyone who has spent time near the sea listening to the sound of the waves with bright and beautiful water color art by amanda mijangos this simple story from the notebooks of nobelist saramago will excite and intrigue the youngest readers and all of those who read along with them an unassuming family struggles to keep up with the ruthless pace of progress in a genuinely brilliant novel from a nobel prize winner chicago tribune a los angeles times best book of the year and a new york times notable book cipriano algor an elderly potter lives with his daughter marta and her husband marçal in a small village on the outskirts of the center an imposing complex of shops apartments and offices marçal works there as a security guard and cipriano drives him to work each day before delivering his own humble pots and jugs on one such trip he is told not to make any more deliveries people prefer plastic apparently unwilling to give up his craft cipriano tries his hand at making ceramic dolls astonishingly the center places an order for hundreds and cipriano and marta set to work until the order is cancelled and the penniless trio must move from the village into the center when mysterious sounds of digging emerge from beneath their new apartment cipriano and marçal investigate what they find transforms the family s life in a novel that is both irrepressibly funny the christian science monitor and a triumph the washington post book world the struggle of the individual against bureaucracy and anonymity is one of the great subjects of modern literature and saramago is often matched with kafka as one of its premier exponents apt as the comparison is it doesn t convey the warmth and rueful human dimension of novels like blindness and all the names those qualities are particularly evident in his latest brilliant dark allegory which links the encroaching sterility of modern life to the parable of plato s cave a remarkably generous and eloquent novel publishers weekly translated from the portuguese by margaret jull costa thought provoking and lyrical the notebook records the last year in the life of josé saramago in these pages beginning on the eve of the 2008 us presidential election he evokes life in his beloved city of lisbon revisits conversations with friends and meditates on his favorite authors precise observations and moments of arresting significance are rendered with pointillist detail and together demonstrate an acute understanding of our times characteristically critical and uncompromising saramago dissects the financial crisis deplores israel s punishment of gaza and reflects on the rise of barack obama the notebook is a unique journey into the personal and political world of one of the greatest writers of our time a wonderfully twisted meditation on identity and individuality from a nobel prize winning author who pushes fiction to its very limits the boston globe as this novel by the author of blindness and all the names begins tertuliano máximo afonso is a divorced depressed history teacher to lift his spirits a colleague suggests he rent a certain video tertuliano watches the film unimpressed but during the night when he is awakened by noise he finds the vcr replaying the video and watches in astonishment as a man who looks exactly like him or more specifically exactly like he did five years earlier mustachioed and fuller in the face appears on the screen against his own better judgment tertuliano decides to pursue his double as he roots out the man s identity what begins as a whimsical chase becomes a probing investigation into what makes us human can we be reduced to our outward appearance rather than the sum of our experiences the inspiration for the film enemy starring jake gyllenhaal and directed by denis villeneuve the double is a timeless novel from a writer john updike described in the new yorker as like faulkner so confident of his resources and ultimate destination that he can bring any impossibility to life by hurling words at it it s tempting to think of the double as his masterpiece the new york times translated from the portuguese by margaret jull costa in an unnamed country on the first day of the new year people stop dying there is great celebration and people dance in the streets they have achieved the great goal of humanity eternal life soon though the residents begin to suffer undertakers face bankruptcy the church is forced to reinvent its doctrine and local maphia smuggle those on the brink of death over the border where they can expire naturally death does return eventually but with a new courteous approach delivering violet warning letters to her victims but what can death do when a letter is unexpectedly returned a stunningly powerful novel of humanity's will to survive against all odds during an epidemic by a winner of the nobel prize for literature an international bestseller this is a shattering work by a literary master boston globe a city is hit by an epidemic of white blindness which spares no one authorities confine the blind to an empty mental hospital but there the criminal element holds everyone captive stealing food rations and raping women there is one eyewitness to this nightmare who guides seven strangers among them a boy with no mother a girl with dark glasses a dog of tears through the barren streets and the procession becomes as uncanny as the surroundings are harrowing a magnificent parable of loss and disorientation blindness has swept the reading public with its powerful portrayal of our worst appetites and weaknesses and humanity's ultimately exhilarating spirit this is an important book one that is unafraid to face all of the horror of the century washington post a new york times notable book of the year a los angeles times best book of the year saramago's cain is a dramatic retelling of the biblical story of cain and abel from a nobel prize winner a psychological even metaphysical thriller that will keep you turning the pages with growing alarm and alacrity the seattle times a washington post book world favorite book of the year senhor josé is a low grade clerk in the city's central registry where the living and the dead share the same shelf space a middle aged bachelor he has no interest in anything beyond the certificates of birth marriage divorce and death that are his daily routine but one day when he comes across the records of an anonymous young woman something happens to him obsessed senhor josé sets off to follow the thread that may lead him to the woman but as he gets closer he discovers more about her and about himself than he would ever have wished the loneliness of people's lives the effects of chance the discovery of love all coalesce in this extraordinary novel that displays the power and art of josé saramago in brilliant form josé saramago one of the most critically acclaimed writers world wide was distinguished with the nobel prize for literature in 1998 this honour the first to be bestowed on a portuguese language writer marked one of the high points in a long and multiple career largely an auto didact saramago never let fame obscure his clear vision of the world tempered by a lifelong acquaintance with severe inequality political struggle but also success be it in terms of the 1974 revolution that freed portugal from nearly fifty years of dictatorship be it in the growing acclaim he received since deciding to focus on writing the nobel prize provided saramago with a wider perhaps more effective base for expressing his opinions but it did not bring about a rupture neither with his political convictions nor with his writing in the large bibliography on saramago sustained critical studies in english are still relatively scarce this volume composed by many diverse voices and the first to focus on saramago s late works strives to address that gap as 2022 marks saramago s centenary this volume is dedicated especially to his enduring memory and to all the futures his works made possible to envision a study guide for jose saramago s blindness excerpted from gale s acclaimed novels for students this concise study guide includes plot summary character analysis author biography study questions historical context suggestions for further reading and much more for any literature project trust novels for students for all of your research needs a family of portuguese farmers struggle to survive as world events pass them by in a novel that resounds with relevance for our own time new york times book review winner of the city of lisbon prize celebrated author jose saramago has delighted readers around the world with his imaginative tales and evocative depictions of life in his native portugal his novel raised from the ground follows the changing fortunes of the mau tempo family poor landless peasants not unlike saramago s own grandparents set in alentejo a southern province of portugal known for its vast agricultural estates the novel charts the lives of the mau tempos as national and international events rumble on in the background the coming of the republic in portugal the two world wars and an attempt on the dictator salazar s life yet nothing really impinges on the grim reality of the farm laborers lives until the first communist stirrings raised from the ground is saramago s most deeply personal novel the book in which he found the signature style and voice that would win him the nobel prize in literature a dreamer petitions his king for a boat and gets more than he bargained for in this richly enigmatic short story by the nobel prize winning author kirkus a man went to knock at the king s door and said give me a boat the king s house had many other doors but this was the door for petitions but the king spent all his time sitting at the door for favors favors being offered to the king you understand whenever he heard someone knocking at the door for petitions he would pretend not to hear so begins this beautifully illustrated and deceptively simple fable why the petitioner required a boat where he was bound for and who volunteered to crew for him the reader will soon discover in a departure from his linguistically dense and sprawling historical novels jose saramago presents a philosophic love story worthy of swift or voltaire
