examines the complex thirteenth century poem roman de la rose in the light of the philosophical ideas of its time and shows the range and scope of the poem's dialogue with pressing philosophical questions at the time it was written the book series beihefte zur zeitschrift für romanische philologie founded by gustav gruber in 1905 is among the most renowned publications in romance studies it covers the entire field of romance linguistics including the national languages as well as the lesser studied romance languages the editors welcome submissions of high quality monographs and collected volumes on all areas of linguistic research on medieval literature and on textual criticism the publication languages of the series are french spanish portuguese italian and romanian as well as german and english each collected volume should be as uniform as possible in its contents and in the choice of languages the first truly in depth interdisciplinary study of philosophical questions in the seminal medieval literary work the roman de la rose this comprehensive work is more than just the standard reference on attachment theory and research it has helped to define and shape this rapidly growing field inside jacket the book addresses the main media channels in society their interdependence in light of emergent technologies foundation theories and traditional concepts this book has been revised to offer increased coverage of culture and media and the political economies of media boutiques cafes patisseries nightlife museums street maps cover covers general areas of scottish law including criminal commercial contract delict environmental family administrative and socio legal issues also includes some articles on comparative law plus book reviews and case notes the roman de la rose is a work of ambivalence and paradox recurring images and topics are handled in a contradictory manner by different speakers these apparent oppositions spring as dr pelen argues in this important study from an underlying structure of irony deriving from the poem s latin models the two traditions of irony examined are those of ovidian love poetry transmitted through goliardic lyric and dream visions and of boethian didactic mediated by alain de lille the impact of these traditions on the authors of le roman de la rose is then analysed what emerges is a stance from which the order of the poem and the unique ambition of its erotic dreamer can be better understood argues that the 13th century french poem can best be understood not by trying to resolve or choosing among the diverse meanings within it or among the myriad of interpretations by scholars and medieval and modern readers but to accept those differences and reflect on our own willingness to accept to reject those meanings as a guide for a love or morality paper edition unseen 17 95 annotation copyright by book news inc portland or
