Mediterranean basin clothing, jewellery, cosmetics, and hairstyles are among the many aspects examined to show the variety of functions of dress in communication and in both establishing and defending identity. The volume begins by reviewing how scholars in the fields of classics, anthropology, religious studies, and sociology examine dress. The second section then looks at materials including depictions of clothing in sculpture and in Egyptian mummy portraits. The third and largest part of the book then examines dress in specific contexts, beginning with Greece and Rome and going on to Jewish and Christian dress, with a specific focus on the intersection between dress, clothing, and religion. By combining essays from over twenty scholars from different disciplinary backgrounds, the book provides a unique overview of different approaches to and contexts of dress in one volume, leading to a greater understanding of dress both within ancient societies and in the contemporary world.

This introduction to the theatre also attempts to offer a meditation on the theatricality of the incarnation, arguing that both biblical and dramatic texts should be approached with a theatrical rather than a literary imagination. The author explores theatrical history.
